Chile: Seven facts on the Sochi 2014 Paralympics

After claiming gold for the first time at London 2012, Chile enters Sochi 2014 on a positive note.

- Chile has taken part in each of the last three Winter Paralympics, making their debut in the competition in Salt Lake City in 2002.
- Chile has yet to win its first medal at the Paralympic Winter Games.
- At the Vancouver 2010 Paralympic Winter Games and Torino 2006, Chile was represented by two male alpine skiers: Tomas Del Villar and Jorge Migueles.
- Del Villar claimed his NPC's best result by finishing 28th in the men's slalom sitting at Torino 2006.
- Chile has collected one medal in the history of both the summer and winter Paralympics.
- Chile won its sole Paralympics medal in athletics at London 2012, when track athlete Cristian Valenzuela triumphed in men's 5,000m T11.
- Chile made its Paralympic debut at the 1992 Summer Games in Barcelona.
