President's welcome

Dear media representative,

Welcome to the first edition of the IPC Swimming Media Guide, a new resource containing everything you need to know about Para swimming in this most important of years.

We are just a few days away from the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games, a first for Latin America, and I believe these Paralympics will be the best ever in terms of athlete performance.

In the last year we have seen a combined 66 world records broken across both the World and European Championships in 2015 and 2016 respectively.

This not only shows that swimmers are getting ready to put in their best performances at Rio 2016, but that the standard of competition is rising all the time.

In the intervening years between London 2012 and Rio 2016 athletes have stepped up their training, become even more professionalised and have increasing access to some of the best sport facilities in the world. As a result, times are tumbling and a series of new faces have also emerged to challenge for titles.

This, combined with the great work happening across the world to develop Para sport from the grass roots to the high performance level, will result in what I believe will be the most competitive Paralympic Games to date.

We will also enjoy more broadcast coverage than ever before, allowing us to spread the word about Para sport to new audiences.

The eyes of the world will be upon us and I do not believe anybody will be disappointed by what they see.

I hope that this Media Guide helps you to get to know Para swimming and provides you with everything you need to cover the competition from the Olympic Aquatics Stadium in Rio.

Thank you for your support,

About the sport

As one of the original Paralympic sports, swimming has grown into one of the most challenging, exciting and popular sports on the Paralympic programme.

It provides competition for athletes with physical, visual and intellectual impairments in 152 medal events.

Athletes compete for medals in freestyle, breaststroke, medley, backstroke and butterfly in distances ranging from the 50m sprint to the endurance test of the 400m.

Men's and women's team relays are also contested in 4x100m freestyle and medley, as well as the mixed 4x50m freestyle.

How does Para swimming compare to able-bodied competition?

Paralympic swimming uses the rules of the International Swimming Federation (FINA) with a few modifications.

The competition pool is always 50m in length and, at Paralympic Games, the same pool is used as the Olympic Games.

Events are conducted as heats for eight competitors per class, with the fastest eight swimmers per class competing in the finals.

Athletes can start the race in a variety of positions: in the water, a dive start sitting on the starting platform or the typical standing start.

No prosthesis or assistive devices are allowed in the competition pool and athletes are not allowed to use anything that may aid their speed, endurance or buoyancy. Goggles and swimming caps are permitted.

Visually impaired athletes can employ the use of a 'tapper'. A tapper is a long stick with a tennis ball or similar on the end, which is used by a coach or team official to touch the athlete when they are approaching the wall. Spectators will notice that different swimmers are 'tapped' in different places – some on the back and some on the head, for example.

This helps the swimmer to judge when to turn or execute their finish.

Visually impaired athletes in classes S/SB11 must use a tapper and must compete with blackened goggles. Those in

S/SB12 and S/SB13 can choose if they use a tapper.

Uniquely, athletes in classes S4 and S3 compete in the 150m individual medley, which omits the butterfly stroke.

Observers will also notice that athletes without arms touch the wall with their head to finish a race, or start by holding onto a towel with their teeth attached to the starting platform.

What about the relays?

There are five relay events on the Paralympic programme: the men's and women's 4x100m freestyle 34 points and 4x100m medley relay 34 points, and the mixed 4x50m freestyle 20 points.

The points element is based on the composition of each team, allowing a combination of different impairment groups. The sport class of an individual swimmer is worth the actual number value. For example, sport class S6 is worth six points, sport class SB12 is worth 12 points, etc.

Each team's points total must not exceed the limit for the event, and the teams can choose which athletes swim each leg.

Classification

The sport class names in swimming consist of a prefix “S” or “SB” and a number. The prefixes stand for the strokes and the number indicates the sport classes. The prefixes stand for:

- S: freestyle, butterfly and backstroke events
- SB: breaststroke
- SM: individual medley. The prefix “SM” is given to athletes competing in individual medley events. It is not a sports class, but an entry index that is calculated from the combination between the S and SB sport classes.

There are 10 different sport classes for athletes with physical impairment, numbered 1-10. A lower number indicates a more severe activity limitation than a higher number.

Due to the different demands of S and SB events, swimmers with physical impairments are often allocated different S and SB sport classes.

Visually impaired athletes compete in classes 11-13 and intellectually impaired swimmers in class 14.

Dedicated information on classification is available on page 10.

History

Swimming is one of the original Paralympic sports and has grown into the second-most popular in terms of TV viewers.

Like many of its counterparts it developed from rehabilitation into a high performance sport practiced around the globe by athletes with a physical, visual or intellectual impairment.

At the first Paralympic Games in Rome in 1960, swimmers with spinal cord injuries competed in five classes in just two distances – 25m and 50m – in backstroke, breaststroke and ‘crawl’.

An open mixed-medal relay was introduced in Tokyo, Japan, in 1964 and more events were also added to the Games in Tel Aviv in 1968, including the 100m freestyle and an additional three relays.

Butterfly was contested for the first time at the Toronto 1976 Paralympic Games, where competitions for visually impaired swimmers were also included.

The Arnhem 1980 edition featured the debut of the USA’s Trischa Zorn, who won seven golds in women’s visually impaired events and would go on to become the most decorated Paralympian in the sport’s history.

There was also a shift in classification in para-sport generally, from a medical-based system to a functional approach. In a functional system the focus is on what impact the athlete’s impairment has on his or her athletic performance.

Swimming continued to be a popular part of the programme throughout the 1990s and into the 2000s, where further rationalisation of classification and events took place.

Competitions for intellectually impaired athletes were included at Atlanta 1996 for the first time. However, they were removed after Sydney 2000 due to an investigation into the Spanish basketball team caused the suspension of all intellectually impaired athletes until London 2012.

The sport has produced many big-name stars over the years. In addition to Zorn, swimmers such as Great Britain’s Eleanor Simmonds and Brazil’s Daniel Dias have become household names because of their exceptional performances.

Times have also tumbled. For example, the world record in the men’s 50m freestyle S12 has reduced by 1.81 seconds since 2004. The world’s fastest Paralympian, Ukraine’s Maksym Veraksa, holds the current best in this event of 22.99 seconds.

At the last Paralympic Games at London 2012 604 swimmers from 74 countries competed in 148 medal events.

At Rio 2016, 620 athletes from around 70 countries will compete for 152 gold medals.

Classification explained

In IPC Swimming, athletes are grouped by the degree of activity limitation resulting from an impairment. These groups are called 'sport classes'. The process of classification determines which athletes are eligible to compete and how athletes are grouped together for competition.

IPC Swimming includes competition for three impairment groups – physical, visual and intellectual.

Sport classes

The sport class names in swimming consist of a prefix "S" or "SB" followed by a number. The prefixes stand for the strokes, and the number indicates the sport classes.

The prefixes stand for:

- S: freestyle, butterfly and backstroke events
- SB: breaststroke
- SM: individual medley. The prefix "SM" is given to athletes competing in individual medley events. It is not a sports class, but an entry index.

Sport classes S1-S10 – physical impairment

There are 10 different sport classes for athletes with physical impairment, numbered 1-10. A lower number indicates a more severe activity limitation than a higher number.

Athletes with different impairments compete against each other, because sport classes are allocated based on the impact the impairment has on swimming, rather than on the impairment itself.

To evaluate the impact of impairments on swimming, classifiers assess all functional body structures using a point system and ask the athlete to complete a water assessment. The total number of points then determines the athlete's S and SB sport classes. Due to the different demands of S and SB events, swimmers are often allocated different S and SB sport classes.

The SM sport class is calculated from the S and SB sport class.

The following are general examples of impairments and resulting functional abilities described in each sport class profiles. The below combinations of S and SB sport classes are the most common combinations, but it is possible that that athlete has another combination of sport classes, for example S7 and SB7.

S1 SB1: Swimmers in this sport class have a significant loss of muscle power or control in legs, arms and hands. Some athletes also have limited trunk control. This may be caused by tetraplegia, for example. Swimmers in this class usually use a wheelchair in daily life.

S2 SB1: Swimmers in this sport class mainly rely on their arms for swimming. Their hand, trunk and leg function is limited due to tetraplegia or co-ordination problems, for example.

S3 SB2: This sport class includes athletes with amputations of both arms and legs. Swimmers with reasonable arm strokes but no use of their legs or trunk and swimmers with severe co-ordination problems in all limbs are also included in this sport class.

S4 SB3: Swimmers who can use their arms and have fair function in their hands, but who cannot use their trunk or legs would swim in this sport class. Athletes with amputations of three limbs could also swim in this sport class.

S5 SB4: Swimmers with short stature and an additional impairment, with loss of control over one side of their body (hemiplegia) or with paraplegia compete in this sport class.

S6 SB5: This sport class includes swimmers with short stature or amputations of both arms, or moderate co-ordination problems on one side of their body, for example.

S7 SB6: This sport class is designated for athletes with one leg and one arm amputation on opposite sides, or a paralysis of one arm and one leg on the same side. Moreover, swimmers with full control over arms and trunk and some leg function can compete in this class.

S8 SB7: Swimmers who have an amputation of one arm are eligible to compete in this sport class. Also, athletes with significant restrictions across hip, knee and ankle joints could compete in this sport class.

S9 SB8: Athletes in this sport class, for example, swim with joint restrictions in one leg or with double below-the-knee amputations.

S10 SB9: This class describes minimal physical impairments of eligible swimmers. These include the loss of one hand or a movement restriction in one hip joint.

Sport classes S/SB11-13 – visual impairment

Athletes with a visual impairment compete in three sport classes from S/SB11 to S/SB13.

S/SB11: These athletes have a very low visual acuity and/or no light perception.

S/SB12: Athletes have a higher visual acuity than athletes competing in the S/SB11 sport class and/or a visual field of less than five degrees radius.

S/SB13: Athletes have the least severe visual impairment eligible for Paralympic sport. They have the highest visual acuity and/or a visual field of less than 20 degrees radius.

In order to ensure a fair competition, athletes in the S/SB11 sport class are required to wear blackened goggles. To ensure safety, all S/SB11 swimmers must use a tapper, but swimmers in the S/SB12 and S/SB13 sport classes may choose whether or not to use one.

Sport classes S/SB14 – intellectual impairment

S14 swimmers have an intellectual impairment, which typically leads to the athletes having difficulties with regards to pattern recognition, sequencing, and memory, or having a slower reaction time, which impact on sport performance in general. Moreover, S14 swimmers show a higher number of strokes relative to their speed than able-bodied high performance swimmers.

Biography

A new Ukrainian star has risen on the swimming scene in Yevheniy Bohodayko.

At only 16, Bohodayko entered the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships in Eindhoven, the Netherlands, capturing five medals and swimming to one world title.

Germany's Sebastian Iwanow, one of Bohodayko's main rivals, already predicted that the then-17-year-old would be the one to beat at the 2011 IPC Swimming European Championships in Berlin.

In the end, Bohodayko exceeded all expectations, becoming the most decorated swimmer of the European Championships with a total of 10 medals, eight of them gold.

In the year after winning two Paralympic golds, Bohodayko went on to add three world titles to his resume in Montreal, Canada and in 2014 left Eindhoven, the Netherlands, with seven European golds.

In 2015, Bohodayko set a new European record in the 50m butterfly S7 and took home two golds from the Worlds. Showing his dominance once again at the last major competition ahead of the Paralympic Games, the Ukrainian claimed four more European titles in 2016.

Biography

In his first Paralympics, Ihar Boki took home five gold and a silver medal and broke four world records in men's S13 events.

His success in London was no surprise. He had shown his form and positioned himself as the man to beat after winning four world titles at the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships in Eindhoven, the Netherlands.

Already in terms of gold medals he is Belarus' most successful Paralympian and that continued at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships where he equalled his gold medal performance from London 2012. He also set two world records.

By the time of the 2015 World Championships, Boki spread himself across multiple events, sealing six gold medals and four world records in the 50m and 100m freestyle, 100m backstroke and 100m butterfly.

His only second place finish came in the 100m breaststroke, where he lost out on gold to teammate Uladzimir Izotau.

The 2016 IPC Swimming European Open Championships was his last major test before Rio 2016 and Boki dominated once again, leaving as the most decorated athlete with six golds and one bronze medal.

Biography

Brasil made his international debut at the 2006 IPC Swimming World Championship in Durban, South Africa, where he was top of the podium in all four individual events he took part in.

Two years later at the Beijing 2008 Paralympics he became a four-time Paralympic champion and went even further at the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships picking up five world titles.

At the London 2012 Paralympic Games he won three gold medals and two silvers, whilst he also broke the world record in the 50m freestyle.

His philosophy is that nothing in life comes easy and you have to have faith and work hard to become whatever you want.

He called upon those words for the Toronto 2015 Parapan American Games and the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships as part of a series of S10 swimmers all fighting for glory.

At Toronto 2015, Brasil left with six gold medals to become the second most decorated athlete.

At the Worlds his record as one of the most formidable swimmers remained intact, winning three titles with two Championship records in the 50m freestyle and 100m backstroke.

Biography

Daniel Dias is Brazil's most successful athlete of the last decade.

At the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships, Dias brought his career world title count to 24 from four editions.

At the Toronto 2015 Parapan American Games, Dias left once again as the most decorated athlete with eight gold medals from all events. The year also ended well for the Brazilian with the birth of his second son.

Dias was inspired to take up swimming after seeing fellow Brazilian Clodoaldo Silva at the Athens 2004 Paralympic Games. At the Beijing 2008 Paralympic Games he made a significant impact, winning a total of nine medals, including four golds. His medal haul made him the most decorated athlete at the Games.

He was pretty much unbeatable at the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships in Eindhoven, the Netherlands winning eight golds and a silver medal.

He was in even more impressive form at the 2011 Parapan American games in Guadalajara, Mexico. Dias claimed gold medals in all 11 events he competed in.

London 2012 saw him win six golds and set four world records.

Dias has been awarded the Laureas World Sportsperson of the Year with a Disability three times, in 2008, 2012 and 2015, to become the first athlete with an impairment to win it three times.

With his home European Open Championships to prepare for in 2016, Grachat had the opportunity to impress his fans shortly before Rio 2016.

And impress he did, with not one bronze medal but two to leave with Portugal's only podium finishes.

Before his bronze medal in the 400m freestyle S9 at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain, Grachat's best finish at a Worlds or Paralympic Games was a fourth place.

The 2015 season was therefore a breakthrough for the Lisbon native, coming at a perfect time in the year before his third Paralympic Games.

Born without a left hand, Grachat took up swimming because his parents wanted him to improve his health.

He made his international debut in 2005 and has gone on to achieve success on the European stage.

Born with autism in 1991, S14 swimmer Marc Evers went into London 2012 as two-time European champion after excelling at the 2011 IPC Swimming European Championships in Berlin, Germany.

In London Evers did not disappoint, winning gold in the 100m backstroke in a world record time. He also took the bronze medal in 100m breaststroke.

Evers' hero is Pieter van den Hoogeband and in 2010 he won his first international medal, a World Championships bronze, in a pool that is named after the Dutch swimming legend in Eindhoven, the Netherlands.

In 2014 at the IPC Swimming European Championships, he returned to his favourite venue to win a further three golds.

His triple gold at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships has also shown that the man, who says he now gets recognised when he goes out shopping, is a world beater that just gets better and better.

Evers was once again in winning form at the 2016 Euros, winning the backstroke and 200m individual medley.

Evers trains 11 times a week in the pool and also does five two-hour strength sessions each week. He also tries to run twice a week and do yoga once a week.

Biography

'The Shark', as his team mates call him, first time competed in the Paralympics in Sydney in 2000. He went on to win three gold and three silver medals.

His finest competition to date was arguably the Athens 2004 Paralympic Games, a competition where he won five titles, broke three world records and also picked up a silver medal.

After four bronze medals at the 2008 Beijing Games, the huge golf enthusiast won one gold and three silver medals at the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships in Eindhoven, the Netherlands.

Inducted into the Canadian Disability Hall of Fame in 2011, Huot took three podiums in his fourth Paralympic Games at London 2012. He broke the world record to take gold in the 200m individual medley, and also won a silver and bronze medal.

The experienced swimmer found another world title at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships at home in Montreal, Canada, against the likes of Brazil's seven-time world champion Andre Brasil.

Deciding to continue his career so that he could compete at home once again at the Toronto 2015 Parapan American Games, Huot collected two silver and bronze medals at the 2015 World Championships. Just three weeks later he won gold in the 400m freestyle S10 at Toronto 2015 and secured a further three silver medals.

Biography

Ollie Hynd's first major international meet was the 2011 IPC Swimming European Championships in Berlin, Germany, and he returned at the 2014 Euros in Eindhoven to successfully defend his 200m individual medley SM8 title and win the 400m freestyle S8.

He stormed to gold at London 2012 and remembers sharing the podium with his brother as one of his greatest moments.

In 2013, Hynd claimed double gold at his first World Championships in Montreal, Canada, in the 200m individual medley and 400m freestyle. That was in addition to being handed an MBE from the Queen of Great Britain.

In 2014 Hynd set a new world mark in the 200m freestyle. But that was not the record he really had his eye on.

In one of the most memorable moments of the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain, Hynd finally broke his brother's five year old world record in the 400m freestyle. He is also unbeaten in the 200m individual medley since 2011.

His mother Helen is one of his biggest fans and carried the Paralympic torch for London 2012.

Biography

Giseong Jo first rose to international prominence at the Incheon 2014 Asian Para Games at home in South Korea, winning gold in the 200m freestyle S4 and a series of other podium finishes.

Less than a year later, when he entered the pool at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain, all eyes were on him.

Inspired to take up swimming by the Beijing 2008 Paralympic Games, Jo went on to win two world titles in 100m and 200m freestyle S4 in Championship record time.

He also took silver in the 50m freestyle.

Rio 2016 will be his first Paralympic Games and naturally, Jo dreams of winning gold in Brazil.

However he will have to get past Mexican Paralympic champion Gustavo Sanchez, the title holder in Jo's favourite events – the 100m and 200m freestyle.

Biography

Keichi Kimura has an important long-term goal in mind.

The visually impaired swimmer wants to compete at his home Paralympic Games in Tokyo in 2020.

Having competed at both Beijing 2008 and London 2012, securing silver in the 100m breaststroke S11 at the latter, in 2013 Kimura won his first world titles.

He mirrored that performance at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships, retaining his form in the year before the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games.

His biggest rival is also his hero. The USA's Bradley Snyder has emerged as the man to beat in the men's S11 and Kimura credits the American with being his inspiration.

Despite being in his mid-20s, Kimura already has a huge amount of competition experience.

Rio 2016 will be his third Paralympic Games and he has three World Championships under his belt from 2010 onwards. He will be hoping to use his knowledge of the pressure of big competitions to his advantage, against Snyder who first competed at London 2012.

He began swimming at the age of 10, having lost his sight at two-years-old due to a retinal condition.

Biography

Kevin Paul is following in the footsteps of his hero, South Africa's most successful Para swimmer Natalie Du Toit.

The Beijing 2008 Paralympic champion has returned to his best form recently, having failed to win gold at the 2010 World Championships and losing his 100m breaststroke SB9 Paralympic title at London 2012.

At both those competitions he left with the silver medal, but in 2013 he claimed his first world title in the breaststroke. He cites that victory as the most memorable of his career, even over his debut Paralympic gold from 2008.

He repeated the performance at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships, winning South Africa's only gold medal in a Championship record time.

Earlier in the year, he smashed the 200m breaststroke world record in the heats at the national trials. That meant he became the first South African para-swimmer to make the able-bodied finals at Nationals, even though the race is not on the Paralympic programme.

He swam against Olympic great Cameron van der Berg and brought down the world record once again.

Paul's recent success has come since a move from his home town in Port Elizabeth to Durban, to train alongside Chad le Clos, Ayrton Sweeney, Sebastian Rossouw and Myles Brown.

Biography

Seventies rock fan Gustavo Sanchez was the top performing Mexican male swimmer at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships, winning five out of the six medals his country's men secured in Montreal, Canada.

With a raft of Americas records to his name, he is also one of the most prolific swimmers in the region.

Born with a congenital limb deficiency, Sanchez began swimming at the age of seven.

His first World Championships were in the same year as his international debut (2010) where he quickly made his mark with three bronze medals in freestyle S4 events.

By the time London 2012 came around, the then 18-year-old was ready for the biggest competition of his life and delivered two golds, one silver and one bronze in front of thousands at the Aquatics Centre.

A 200m freestyle specialist, Sanchez was again the best performer in his team and as a result was awarded the 2012 National Sport Award in the Paralympic athlete category by the Mexican Olympic Committee.

He enjoys sushi, science fiction and video games and believes that "everything you want, you will get if you want it hard enough".

Biography

Despite only taking up swimming in 2013, Carlos Serrano has emerged as the man to beat in the men's S7 at the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games.

His debut season in 2015 saw him win World Championships gold in the 100m breaststroke SB7 in world record time.

Then, at the Toronto 2015 Parapan American Games, he stormed to an impressive five gold medals all in Games record times and with a new Americas record in the 50m butterfly S7.

The performance placed him in the top five of the most decorated athletes and as Colombia's most successful athlete, he was selected as the flag bearer for the Closing Ceremony.

In the course of his short career he has broken the 100m breaststroke SB7 world record no less than four times.

Rio 2016 will be his first Paralympic Games and he will still be just a teenager when he competes there.

If he wins a coveted Paralympic title it will be Colombia's first gold medal in swimming since Pedro Mejia all the way back in 1980.

A committed athlete, Serrano fits his training around his schooling as he believes that medals are won in training and you are "just picking them up at events".

Biography

Since winning gold at London 2012 in the 400m freestyle on the one year anniversary of losing his sight in Afghanistan, Brad Snyder has grown into one the USA's favourite, and most successful, Para athletes.

Snyder also won the 100m freestyle and a silver in the 50m freestyle S11, leaving London with three medals and a new resolve to get even better.

The 2015 season brought Snyder's World Championships debut. Sweeping all three of his events, Snyder cemented himself as one of the athletes to watch at the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games.

When serving in the US Navy in 2011, Snyder was blinded by an improvised explosive device. Whilst his limbs were broadly undamaged, both of Snyder's eyes had to be replaced with prosthetics and the former sighted swimmer had to find a new direction.

Using his experience and talent as a former Male Swimmer of the Year in his senior year at Naval Academy, the American decided to embark on a new life in Para swimming.

Since then, Snyder has achieved incredible success. In addition to his success in the pool, he was also named as an Athlete Ambassador for BP for Rio 2016.

Biography

Ukraine's Dmytro Vynohradets' list of achievements at major international competitions is incredibly impressive and makes him one of the most successful swimmers within a hugely competitive national team.

The country finished in the top three of the medals table at the last two IPC Swimming World Championships in 2013 and 2015, collecting a haul of 54 gold medals, nine of which belonged to Vynohradets.

In 2015, whilst his gold medal count reduced, he still left the World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain, with four world titles.

His dominance in European swimming is shown in his total of 20 regional records which stretch back to when he made his international debut in 2006. He also left the 2016 Euros as the second most decorated swimmer with six golds.

Vynohradets trains with coach Galina Boyko for the Invasport Team in Poltava.

Biography

China's S6 swimming star Qing Xu shined at the London 2012 Paralympic Games, winning four gold medals and wowing the crowds.

Previously, Xu won four medals at the Beijing 2008 Paralympic Games, including three golds. He was victorious in the 50m freestyle with a world-record time of 29.78. He broke another world record in the 50m butterfly to take gold in a time of 30.79. Together with his teammates, he also swam to another gold and world record in the 4x50m medley relay. The Chinese speedster added one more bronze medal, in the 200m individual medley.

At the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships, Xu swam to one world title in the 50m butterfly. He then added one silver medal to his collection in the 50m freestyle.

Returning to international swimming in the year after his most successful Paralympic Games, in 2013 Xu added a further three medals to an illustrious career.

He bagged gold in his favourite event, the 50m freestyle, at the 2015 World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain.

He has indicated that he may retire after Rio, so expect Xu to want to go out on a high.

Biography

Yang Yang set four world records in three events in 2015, setting himself up perfectly to defend his four golds medals from the London 2012 Paralympic Games.

One of those, in the 200m freestyle S2, was on his way to gold at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships.

There he also picked up a title in the 50m backstroke S2.

All of this when Yang is still a teenager, and he will be just 19 when he competes at his second Paralympic Games in Rio de Janeiro in 2016.

He will be hoping to repeat his most memorable sporting achievement in 2016, which was his four golds from London 2012.

London served as Yang's international debut where he set two new world records in the heats and finals of the 50m backstroke and 100m freestyle. He also brought down the 50m freestyle mark.

Yang's premature birth was the cause of his cerebral palsy, and between 2001 and 2005 he underwent a massive seven operations. He took up swimming in 2007 to help his recovery.

Biography

As one of the most successful Para swimmers in China, Tao Zheng came to swimming after being talent spotted by a local sports association.

It was not until his Paralympic debut at London 2012 that his profile began to grow. As a result of an electric shock as a child, he lost both arms. In the pool, this of course means that he can only propel himself using his legs. And so the image of a young athlete swimming without arms became one of the most iconic moments of London 2012.

Not only that, Zheng had broken the 100m backstroke S6 world record to claim the gold.

After winning a total of four medals he was awarded the highest honour for young people in China – the 4 May Award.

In 2013, he continued his great form by winning his favourite 100m backstroke event at the World Championships and also the 50m butterfly against his rival and seven time Paralympic champion teammate Qing Xu.

He retained both titles in 2015 at the IPC Swimming World Championships breaking the world record once again.

Biography

Triple Paralympic champion Ellie Cole nearly retired after the London 2012 Paralympic Games.

However reconstructive surgery on her shoulder in 2013, which could have seen her out of the pool indefinitely, made her realise how much swimming meant to her.

After recovering, Cole returned to training and in 2015 went on to win her first world titles.

She left Glasgow, Great Britain, with three gold medals in the 100m backstroke S9, 100m freestyle S9 and 4x100m freestyle relay 34 points. Her 100m backstroke title also came with a world record.

For her efforts Cole received Swimming Australia's Golden Moment Award in 2015.

At Rio 2016, Cole will be defending her 100m backstroke and 100m freestyle titles and could be part of the relay team defending their two golds.

Cole, whose right leg was amputated as a result of cancer at the age of two, excelled at swimming right from the start.

Eight weeks after the amputation, Cole's mother took her swimming as part of the rehabilitation process. Her instructors predicted it would take her a year to learn to swim in a straight line. It took her two weeks.

Biography

Great Britain's Bethany Firth first burst onto the international scene representing Ireland at London 2012. In December 2013, she made the decision to switch nationalities and has proved herself to be a tough competitor in the women's S14.

At London 2012, she swam with a shoulder injury and in 2014 competed with a broken toe.

At the 2015 British Para-Swimming International Meet in Glasgow, Great Britain, Firth set new world records in the 200m individual medley, 100m backstroke and 100m breaststroke.

Firth was firmly on the road to become one of the success stories of the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships until she slipped getting out of the pool in training just weeks before.

The fall resulted in fractured wrist which put Firth out of action.

However, Firth came back in time for the 2016 European Championships where she left with two silver medals, her first on the European stage.

New Zealand's Mary Fisher left it to her last possible opportunity to win gold at the London 2012 Paralympic Games, in the 200m individual medley SM11, the last race of the greatest ever Games.

Born with a condition called aniridia, which means she has no irises in her eyes, Fisher was only able to distinguish colours as a child and her sight has steadily deteriorated.

Her hobbies include music, reading, tandem cycling and hiking in the New Zealand bush, and she has also recently taken up Para triathlon as a second sport.

Her notoriety did not stop in London, with Fisher going on to win five individual gold medals at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships in Montreal, Canada, the city where she won her first international medal back in 2009.

In 2015, she was named Swimmer of the Year with a Disability by Swimming New Zealand after winning three gold and two silver medals at the World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain.

In 2016 she will return to the city where she made her international debut in 2009 – Rio de Janeiro – where she will look to cement her status as one of her country's top athletes.

Biography

Jessica Long was named the 2011-12 Paralympic Sports Woman of the Year by the United States Olympic Committee, after winning eight medals, made up of five gold, two silver and one bronze, at London 2012.

Aged 12, making her the youngest member of the US Paralympics team, she made her international debut at the Athens 2004 Games and won three gold medals.

In 2006, the S8 swimmer broke 18 world records, including five at the IPC Swimming World Championships, where she also picked up nine gold medals.

After winning seven titles at the 2010 IPC Swimming World Championships, Long added to her medal collection at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships with three golds, one silver and a bronze. In 2015 she bagged a further four titles.

Long is one of the world's most decorated swimmers with 17 Paralympic medals, including 12 gold, and 30 World Championships medals consisting of 24 gold.

Long was adopted from a Russian orphanage at 13 months old. In 2013 she returned to Russia where she met her biological parents ahead of the Sochi 2014 Paralympic Winter Games where she presented NBC's coverage of the Games.

Biography

Para swimming fans can be in no doubt about the potential of Yelyzaveta Mereshko to deliver a major upset at the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games.

The Ukrainian beat Great Britain's Eleanor Simmonds in the 400m freestyle S6 in an exhilarating race at the 2015 IPC Swimming World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain.

Simmonds had won the event at every World and Paralympic Games since Beijing 2008, but that did not matter to Mereshko, taking the world title from her idol at her first Worlds and setting up one of the races of 2016.

Mereshko won a further two world titles in the 50m and 100m freestyle S6, to add to her first two European titles from 2014.

Not only that the relative newcomer, who only began swimming competitively in 2013, set two new world records in the 50m and 100m freestyle in Glasgow.

The 400m freestyle mark has been brought down by both Mereshko and Simmonds in 2016, latterly by the Ukrainian at the European Open Championships.

Mereshko, who enjoys embroidery to keep her mind occupied in between competing and training, is also a computer engineering student.

Biography

Aged just 15, Sophie Pascoe was the youngest member of the New Zealand team at Beijing 2008 where she won three golds and one silver medal in the Water Cube.

Her success in Beijing earned her four awards at the 2009 Canterbury Sportsperson Awards, including the prestigious Sportsman of the Year Award.

At London 2012 she did even better than in Beijing taking home three gold and three silver medals in front of 17,000 people.

Pascoe is clearly hungry for more. After setting personal bests in all the races she won silver in at London 2012 she was determined to add to her gold medal collection at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships and came away with an incredible five world titles.

The S10 swimmer had a difficult season in 2015 with the absence of her coach Roly Crichton, but still made the best of the year by adding three world titles.

On her tail is Canadian relative newcomer Aurelie Rivard who claimed Pascoe's 100m freestyle world record in 2015 and also left the Worlds with two titles.

Biography

At Sydney 2000 Teresa Perales made her Paralympic Games debut, winning a silver in the 50m butterfly and four bronze medals, in the 50m, 100m and 200m freestyle and the 50m backstroke.

After her five medals in Sydney, Perales managed to improve this result at Athens 2004, adding two gold medals to her collection.

At Beijing 2008, Perales put on her best performance yet, securing three Paralympic golds and breaking two world records.

After Beijing, Perales, who was voted onto the IPC Athletes Council, took some time off the sport to give birth to her child before returning to the international stage in July 2011 at the IPC Swimming European Championships in Berlin. And what a comeback she gave, winning a total of eight medals, including one gold in the 100m freestyle, four silver and three bronze medals.

The London 2012 Paralympics were Perales' fourth Games, and she retained her 100m freestyle title for the third consecutive time.

Returning from serious illness in 2014, Perales executed another perfect comeback with three individual European golds.

Biography

Whilst Aurelie Rivard claimed a silver medal in the 400m freestyle S10 at the London 2012 Paralympic Games, it is in the years since that the Canadian has really come to the fore.

In 2013 she won five medals at her home World Championships in Montreal, Canada.

Even so, she struggled to overcome New Zealand's multiple world and Paralympic champion Sophie Pascoe to claim top place on the podium.

That all changed in 2015 when Rivard stormed to two gold medals in the 50m and 400m freestyle S10 for her first world titles in Glasgow, Great Britain, against Pascoe.

But that was not all.

At the Toronto 2015 Parapan American Games, once again in her home waters, Rivard brought down Pascoe's 100m freestyle world record by 0.06 seconds.

Firmly embedding herself in the national consciousness, Rivard won six gold medals in Toronto to become the most decorated female athlete across all sports and the third most medalled overall.

Rivard's potential was spotted whilst she was training to become a lifeguard and she began competing at the age of 11.

Biography

Rung's first major international competition was the 2009 IPC Swimming World Championships Short Course in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil where she took silver in the 100m freestyle, just one year following back surgery which resulted in damaged nerves.

In 2010 she won three gold medals at the IPC Swimming World Championships in Eindhoven, the Netherlands.

At London 2012, her first Paralympics, Rung won two gold medals defeating her biggest rivals Ukraine's Nataliia Prologaieva and Spanish swimming legend Teresa Perales. She took home silver medals from the 200m individual medley and 100m breaststroke.

In a continuation of the form she has experienced in recent years, Rung collected four gold medals and one bronze at the 2013 IPC Swimming World Championships in Monteval, Canada. She repeated that performance in Glasgow, Great Britain, in 2015, adding a silver in the 100m freestyle and winning all of her country's gold medals.

Keen not to disappoint on the European stage, Rung won the same four golds in 2014 and 2016. She added a shared gold with Perales in the 100m freestyle in 2016.

Biography

Aged just 13 at the time, Ellie Simmonds was the second youngest Paralympian in British history to win a medal of any colour when she competed at the Beijing 2008 Paralympic Games.

In February 2009 she became the youngest person ever to be appointed a Member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE).

Despite the immense pressure on her heading into her home Paralympics at London 2012, she duly delivered in front of her home crowd claiming two gold, one silver and one bronze medal. She also broke two world records.

Her success in the pool continued into 2013 with triple gold and one bronze at the IPC Swimming World Championships in Montreal, Canada. Simmonds also set a record in the 200m individual medley.

Prior to the 2015 World Championships in Glasgow, Great Britain, Simmonds had not lost the 400m freestyle at a Worlds or Paralympic Games since 2008. That all changed thanks to Ukraine's Yelyzaveta Mereshko, who beat Simmonds in a thrilling final.

The head-to-head between Simmonds and Mereshko leading into Rio 2016 is a thrilling prospect for fans, especially since both women have taken down the 400m freestyle world record in 2016.

Anti-doping

To promote and protect the integrity of sport and the health of athletes, the IPC, together with International Federations, including IPC Swimming, and the National Paralympic Committees established the IPC Anti-Doping Code.

The aims of the code, which is fully compliant with the World Anti-Doping Agency Code, are:

- To protect the athlete's right to participate in doping free sport and thus promote health, fairness and equality for athletes worldwide.
- To ensure harmonised, coordinated and effective anti-doping programmes on the international and national level with regards to detection, deterrence and prevention of doping.

Anti-doping rules, like competition rules, are sport rules governing the conditions under which sport is played. All participants (athletes and athlete support personnel) accept these rules as a condition of participation and are presumed to have agreed to comply with the IPC Anti-Doping Code.
